THE GRANGERS AND THE RAILROADS.

[Continued from yesterday.] We have a railroad running across the country in the northerly part of its territory. One is projected and partly built across the Southern border. It is a work of such magnitude that the prospect of its being completed in a reasonable period of time, if ever, without the aid of the whole people, acting through the Government. is not hopeful, and the question now presents itself to the people and more especially to those devoted to farming and agricultural pursuits than any other, is it for the interest of the nation, for that of the farmers and agthe Southwestern and Northwestern riculturists generally, that this assistance should be rendered? The difference in the climate and character of the country over which the two routes pass are almost as opposite as could be imagined. The one, cold in Winter and hot in Summer, covered with snow at one season and drenched with rain at another, and having its requisite number of streams to carry off the superabundance of water, which are crossed by bridges and culverts, continually exposed to damage by floods and heavy rains, the washing away of embankments, the freezing and thawing of the road-bed, together with the greater wear and tear, cost and delay in operating a road of high grades and sharp curves, day. are items which amount annually to a much greater sum than the interest upon the money expended in the construction and stocking of the road. The 32d parallel route is free from cold and snow, unexposed to the damaging effects from the freezing and thawing of the road-bed, with minor extremes of heat and cold. The amount of rain-fall is inconsiderable. consequently but little or no damage is to be suffered by the washing away of bridges, culverts or embankments. No part of the route has a high altitude, but runs over extensive plains, giving a low aggregate of ascents and descents and without high grades, the wear and tear of the road and the cost of the propelling power will all be so much less than upon the present road, that the rate of freights and fares and the length of time in transit may be greatly lessened and still leave the operating of the road a profitable bus-

Most of the delays and expenses caused by obstructions constantly recurring upon the northern route, will be avoided on the more southern one. From the shores of the Pacific to the Mississippi river or a maritime port in Texas, there are but two rivers of is of no inconsiderable importance. The products of the soil can be transported with greater ease and less cost in proportion to distance in the direc-tion of the flow of the rivers of a country than in the opposite direction. Thus, a railroad along the 32d parallel, crossing the rivers at right

It would be a humiliating fact, if such should be proven, and one which would destroy all faith in our form of Government, that the people are in-competent or unable to select proper ernment; but I am far from harboring a belief in the existence of such a fact. The Inyo Independent says that the recent discoveries in the new Coso district are simply enormous in their extent and value. These mines are forty miles southeast of the foot of Owens Lake, seven miles east of the Independence and Panamint stage road, and about eight miles west of the head of Darwin Cañon. They are easily accessible by wagon.

Mr. McComas, one of our most substantial and progressive farmers, has just imported two thoroughbred Jersey bulls, six months old, valued at $100 each. These are the first of the Jersey breed ever imported into Los Angeles county. Our farmers would make money by following the exam-ple which Mr. McComas has set for

Dr. Brenan's free lecture at Turn-Verein Hall to-night will doubtless attract a large audience. The subject -"The Human Mind and its Influences upon the Body"—is one of great interest and it will be treated by the Doctor in his own original and pungent style, richly repaying all who hear him. Go early, if you expect to

The editor of the Inyo Independent has gone into the show business. His first effort is thus chronicled by his own paper: "Our Senior's first appearance on any stage as an acrobat, trapezist or grand and lofty tumbler, occurred upon his recent trip to Panamint, when, as the stage was ascending one of the grades in that region, he attempted a gallant leap into space in order to save his bacon from what he the stage maintained its equilibrium, and Mr. C. finally arrived safely in Panamint, as we learn from the News. Our informant states that it was a close call.

Railroad Meeting.

The projected railroad under the Company seems to have awakened the former project of the Truxton landing road, which has been quietly napping for several months past. Yesterday a meeting of the prime movers in the latter enterprise was held at the United States Land Office. About twenty gentlemen were present who exhibited an active interest in the affair, and the meeting proceeded in a very business-like manner to inaugurate a stock company for the work in hand. The name adopted was "The Los Angeles Railroad Company." Ex-Mayor J. R. Toberman was chosen President, with Louis Wolfskill Treasurer, J. W. Haverstick Secretary and a board of seven Directors; all of the officers being elected temporarily. Twenty-eight thousand dollars in stock was promised and a donation of one hundred acres of land lying at the shore end of the line was made to the company by Mrs. Lucas. The capital stock of the company was fixed at $200,000—a sum which was deemed ample to construct the road and build a wharf at the landing. It has been practically demonstrated that such a wharf extended 1,400 feet would reach a depth of twenty-one feet of water at low tide, thus giving ample accommodations to shipping. Committees were appointed to canvass for subscriptions to stock in the road, consisting of the following named gentle-men: Committee at large, Mr. Weed and John D. Young; for the Third Ward, Los Angeles city, J. R. Toberman and Mr. Haines, for the Second Ward, H. D. Barrows and Louis Wolfskill; for the First Ward, General Bouton. It was decided to in-corporate the company at once, and the necessary articles ready drafted were submitted to the meeting. We hope that the "Los Angeles Railroad" will prove a success. It is in the hands of men who have both the necessary means and enterprise to construct it, and, being an entirely local road devoted to the interests of Los Angeles as its name implies, there is no doubt but that it will receive a strong support from our citizens.

Presentation.

City Marshal J. J. Carrillo was the recipient of another flattering compliment from his friends last night. This tims it came in the shape of an elegant gold-plated badge. The affair came off at Judge Thompson's office where a number of prominent citizens were assembled, and Mr. Carrillo being invited in, Senator Bush arose, and with a few appropriate remarks, made the presentation. He expressed the high esteem in which Mr. Carrtllo is held in Los Angeles, and believed that the confidence of the people, as shown in the late election, was not illy bestowed. Mr. Carrillo responded with a few words expressive of his gratitude to his friends who had thus chosen to honor him and promised to be faithful to his trust. The badge was pinned to its place by the Marshal's aged father, who was present and delivered some sound parental advice suited to the occasion. Mr. J. start and the steam turned on with J. Thomas then followed with a little full force, but the train refused to move order to save his bacon from what he supposed was an upsetting stage. Miscalculating his ability to manage his pedal extremities, however, he managed to gracefully land all in a heap among the horses' heels, the wagon-tongue, double-trees and things. But the land the little speech of congratulation, after which the convenient quarters and drank to the health of all concerned. The badge is a very tasty and elegant piece of workmanship. It is in the form of a shield, bearing on the track and stuck the wheels fast to the rails. They were at last septiments and on the track and stuck the wheels fast to the rails. They were at last septiments are the supposed was an upsetting stage. Miscalculating his ability to manage his pedal extremities, however, he managed to gracefully land all in a heap among the horses' heels, the wagon-tongue, double-trees and things. But

[Written for the HERALD.] TO ----

Dear love did you ever feel When the shades of night draw nigh, And star-light often steals From the twinkling worlds on high, As if you would like to dwell

Upon dream-land's fairy shore, With nothing to break the spell, Or open the crystal door?

The river of time flows by, We stop at the magical isle; Hope reareth her castle high, Wreathing each lip with a smile. The portals are open wide

By joy and pleasure to-day, Either will be our guide Leading up the dreamy way.

Wonderous beautiful isle, Bright in the river of life; Catching from heaven its smile, Shunning earth's sorrow and strife.

Flowers bloom bright in this land, Whispering softly of love: Tended by wee fairy hands, Near to the portals above. I anguage would fail to express,

All you have been unto me, Or half the dear tendernesss, Circling forever round thee. Morning, at noon and at night, When ere I know you away,

Where danger hangs like a blight, I never forget to pray. That our Father on high May watch from heaven above. Bidding his angels be nigh

Where ere your footsteps may rove. Then when life's daylight shall close. Softly fails the last even, May we lie down to repose, Sure of a meeting in heaven.

SUNDAY READING.

ZOE ZELLA.

[Selected for Sunday's HERALD.] OVER AND OVER AGAIN.

ver and over again, No matter which way I turn,
I aiways find in the book of life
Some lesson I have to learn.
I must take my turn at the mill,
I must grind out the golden grain, I must work out my task with a resolute will, Over and over again.

We cannot measure the need Of even the tiniest flower, Nor check the flow of the golden sands That run through a single hour; But the morning dews must fall, And the sun and the Summer rain Must do their part, and perform it all Over and over again. Over and over again The brook through the meadow flows,

And over and over again
The ponderons mill wheel goes.
Once going will not suffice, Though doing be not in yain;
And a blessing failing us once or twice
May come if we try again.

The path that has once been trod Is never so rough to the feet; And the lesson we once have tearned Is never so hard to repeat, Though sorrowful tears must fall, And the heart to its depths be riven With storm and tempest, we need them all To render us meet for heaven.

Allegory and Story.

Dean Stanley, in an address at the unveiling of the statue of John Bunyan, after quoting Lord Macaulay's statement that the seventeenth century only produced two men of original genius, John Milton and John Bunyan, went on to say that there were only two prose works of univermanagement of the Centinela Land sal popularity in the whole of English literature. These are the Pilgrim's Progress, written by a Baptist preacher, a non-conformist, and Robinson Crusoe, by a Presbyterian journalist, and dissenter. The reverend speaker thought Pilgrim's Progress to be "one of the six books," and equal with any of the six, that, after the English Bible, have contributed to the common religious culture of the Anglo-Saxon race. It is also about the only English book that has succeeded in identifying religious instruction with the entertainment and amusement of both old and young.

A busy, useful, holy life, and none other, is a lfe of well-doing; is a noble life, though passed in a cottage, is a happy one, though its path be rough and thorny. In a world where there is much to do, there is little time for self-enjoyment, and no time for sinful ones. Like a toil-worn laborer, weary in, though not of his work, the Christian may sometimes wish it were concluded, and long for sunset that he might leave the field to go home; yet toiling and enduring, bearing others burdens as well as his own, living not for himself, regarding every day as lost which is not marked by some good done, and regarding himself as the steward of God's bounty-not a lord but a laborer in the vineyard-that man, though he may be weary in, will not be weary of well-doing .- Bowman.

Things that Last.

Let us now look at those things that will never wear out." I have often heard a poor blind girl sweetly sing, "Kind words will never die." Ah! we believe that these are among the things that "will never wear out." And we are told in God's own book to be "kind to one another, tender - hearted, forgiving one an-

The word of the Lord will never wear out. Though the grass shall wither and the flowers fall away, the word of the Lord endureth forever. (1 Peter, i. 24, 25.)

The life of the righteous will never wear out. They will live in the world to come as long as God shall live; but the death of the wicked will last for-

The joys of the Kingdom of Heaven will never wear out. The people of this world soon die; but the enjoyments of that world will never end. The crown of glory will never wear out. The crown of the winner in the Olympic games soon faded; the crown of kings all wear out; but the crown of glory will never fade away. (1 Peter, v. 4.)

The "new song" will never wear out. We hear sometimes that some of our tunes are worn threadbare; but that will never be said of the new song. Which will you choose-the lasting or that which wastes away? things of time or of eternity? Will you choose wealth, honor, fame or the oys of heaven, eternal life, the crown of glory and the "new song?"

May God enable you to make a wise choice; and, with Joshua, may we choose to serve the Lord.—Christian Treasury.

SAN GABRIEL, April 20, 1874.

My little boy, over two years old, has suffered terribly for more than a year from obstruction of the URINARY organs. All means of relief seemed unavailing, until I was advised to consult with Dr. LEAL of Los Angeles. After a critical examination he found and removed a stone from the uretha weighing five grains. Immediately relief followed, and my child is now well.

W. J. JONES. Gratitude.

Grateful, not only for entire relief from terrible suffering of seven years' standing, but a perfect cure of internal piles by an operation scarcely more painful than my daily sufferings before the operation. I feel it a duty I owe to those similarly afflicted to give this testimonial of the skillful and efficient treatment of DR. J. H. LEAL, of Los Angeles. Dr. Leal's success is more highly appreciated from the fact that several of the prominent physiciams of Los Angelss had treated me without understanding my disease, and of course without success.
